Solar power is the future and I recognize that you want to make it as clean as possible, but your investigation process will only hold back advances in the area. Advances in technology are supported almost entirely on the money behind them and This investigation will greatly decrease the sales of solar technology from the current companies. I agree that it may need to be investigated, but not at the sacrifice of the companies business and at the expense of further expansion. Other countries will only pull further ahead in the technology leaving us behind. Consider your political obligations to the consumers as well as the environment. Dont let the an investigation to help the environment hold a technology back from its full environmental saving potential.
