I just read that BLM is holding up development of Solar energy on publicly owned lands to do a stupid environmental impact study that will take two years. EX Order 13212 is to speed up energy development.

Forget the so called environmental impact and just do it. This kind of crap is why we should fire every agency of the Fed Gov't and start over. You've all become monsters that impede progress.

Why in the hell should you hold up sorely needed energy to find out if some rattlesnakes will be affected. Most of the land in question I'm sure is "worthless" for anything by gathering sun light.

For crying out loud get off your government butts and do something creative. Like working 8 or 10 hours a day and quit worrying about bugs and cactus.
