I am in full support of developing renewable energy sources and ways to better our environment but is there any reason OHV land is continually targeted. I have seen plenty of maps which lead me to believe there is lots of suitable land that is not frequented by OHV users. We are people who operate on public land, under the rules given by state and local govt. There is no reason we should have to give up what little land we have left if there are other alternatives. I beg you to reconsider the location of your proposal.
